

Upwards of 95% of Hepatitis C patients are now cured with tablets alone

Hepatitis C is a virus carried in the blood. It affects the liver by preventing it from working properly. Left untreated it can lead to liver cancer or cirrhosis.

Don't live in doubt
Get tested, get treated

If you think you may have been at risk of exposure to hepatitis C speak to your doctor about getting tested.

For more information visit ForwardLeeds.co.uk/HepC or call the Hepatitis C Trust on 0207 089 622

